on alerts intelligence, subject to the amendment of last sentence of the second paragraph of the draft reply to read: "In this connection, it is also our understanding that watch procedures established as a result of this agreement will be maintained continuously on a 24-hour basis." In response to an inquiry by Mr. Furnas, the members also agreed that there would be no objection to furnishing an advance copy of this IAC-approved draft to a representative

5. Scheduling of New Estimate

The Chairman circulated to the members copies of a communication from Mr. Armstrong to Mr. Dulles, suggesting the initiation of an estimate dealing with problems which might arise if foreign countries other than the USSR and the UK should acquire capabilities with nuclear weapons. Mr. Kent noted that the Board of National Estimates favored this proposal, and the members agreed to undertake such an estimate, with a target date of early July for IAC consideration, subject to a further check by Mr. Armstrong as to the suitability of this timing.

6. Briefing Materials on Guided Missile Intelligence
(IAC-D-81/14.11, 29 April;
Limited Distribution)

The members reviewed a draft of briefing materials on guided missile intelligence prepared by GMIC and approved this draft, as amended.

7. Report of Ad Hoc Working Group on Arab-Israeli Situation
(25 April 1957)

Noted this report. The members also agreed that appropriate amendments (to page 5, Chart IV and Map II) should be prepared and disseminated in order to reflect the deployment of certain British military forces in the Mafraq area.

8. Review of Crisis Situations

a. Middle East Situation

The members reviewed recent developments in the Middle East, with particular emphasis on factors affecting the Jordanian situation and possible moves by the Israelis, Syrians or other countries in the area. In addition, the members discussed certain aspects of the Egyptian internal situation, as well as the possible political consequences of the illness of the Premier of Lebanon.

b. Honduran-Nicaraguan Situation

The members also exchanged views on recent developments affecting relations between Honduras and Nicaragua.

9. Communication from President's Board of Consultants
(Memorandum to IAC, 24 April; Limited Distribution)

The members considered and approved (in renewed discussion following item 10) the proposed draft reply by the Director of Central Intelligence to the communication from the President's Board of Consultants with respect to the current intelligence activities of the intelligence community, as amended in the light of their discussion.

10. Revision of NSCID No. 1
(IAC-D-105, 24 April)

Mr. Dulles commented generally on the nature of various recommendations by the President's Board of Consultants with respect to foreign intelligence activities of the components of the intelligence community, and outlined the steps which were being taken to reply or otherwise respond to those recommendations. In the course of his remarks, he emphasized his feeling that, over the past few years, members of the intelligence community had been achieving by agreement and mutual understanding a very great improvement in the intelligence effort. He also expressed his confidence that the members would cooperate with him as in the past in further developing and improving coordination of the community's activities, and generally carrying out the President's mandates.

After noting that no final action was expected at this meeting on the proposed revision of NSCID No. 1, Mr. Dulles, together with General Cabell and General Truscott, explained the reasons for certain of the changes proposed in that directive. With respect to procedure to be followed in reviewing the NSCID's, the members agreed that tentative IAC approval first be obtained on a revision of NSCID No. 1, after which the members would consider revisions of other NSCID's on the basis of their tentative draft of NSCID No. 1, with final action eventually to be taken on the group of NSCID's as a whole. In accord with Admiral Martell's proposal that an ad hoc working group initially consider the revision of NSCID No. 1, the members agreed to establish such a group, on a high-level basis, under the chairmanship of General Truscott. In this connection, Mr. Armstrong stressed the importance of reviewing all the NSCID's in the light of the circumstances under which they were originally drawn, the experience with them and the degree of mutual trust now existing within the intelligence community.

The Chairman then reviewed again and discussed with the members the general nature of, and action being taken with respect to, recommendations by the President's Board on matters other than the revision of NSCID's. He also circulated to the members drafts of his interim responses to recommendations No. 2, No. 4 and No. 9, inviting comments but noting that the members were not bound by these interim replies.

11. Mr. Armstrong's Departure

The Chairman stated that since Mr. Armstrong was being reassigned this would be his last meeting as a member of the IAC, and welcomed Ambassador Cumming as his designated successor.

The Chairman then noted that Mr. Armstrong had served on the IAC longer than any other member; that he had greatly assisted in developing the work of the Committee to its present level of effectiveness; and instructed the Secretary to prepare a statement formally recording the appreciation of the members for the long service and valuable contributions which Mr. Armstrong had made to the IAC and to the production of National Intelligence.
